Research Process and its Objectives
REPORT

Topic: Research Process and its Objectives

Date: 27 August, 2020

OBJECTIVE OF THE SEMINAR:

1. Research objectives describe what your research is trying to achieve and explain why you are pursuing it.
2. They summarize the approach and purpose of your project and help to focus your research.
3. Establish the scope and depth of your project
4. Contribute to your research design
5. Indicate how your project will contribute to existing knowledge

The aim of the workshop was to enlighten the students on the meaning and relevance of research. The speaker for the day was Mr. Suresh Lorik Yadav. He is currently working as Assistant Professor in Nirmala College of Commerce.

The session was very nicely conducted, and began with the blessings of God and an introduction to Research Process and its Objectives. The session was very informative. The students were made aware about the meaning and importance of Research Practices. Further different techniques of conducting research were discussed. Overall, the students were very satisfied with the session and the queries were also solved. The innovative research is curiosity-led and open-ended in nature, using thematic explorations as the means to deepen or challenge the current understandings of humanitarian innovations and stay abreast of emerging trends in the field of humanitarian innovation.

Research objectives are important because they establish the scope and depth of your project: This helps you avoid unnecessary research. It also means that your research methods and conclusions can easily be evaluated. Contribute to your research design. When you know what your objectives are, you have a clearer idea of what methods are most appropriate for your research.
